Excerpt: . . . threatening on the other, the issue should have turned out as it did. Rome, awaking at last to her danger, met the Reformation with four weapons--a counter-reformation, j-1 j. i T. . . . , t The means of an increased vigour in the Inquisition, the resistance institution of the Jesuits, and a greater em- medtoby bellishment of worship. The disposition of the northern nations was to a simplification of worship, that of the south to adorn it with whatovor could captivate the senses. Ranke asserts that the composition of the mass of Marcellus by Palestrina, 1560, had a wonderful effect in the revival of religion; there can be no doubt that it constituted an epoch in devotion. But of all A counterthese, the first and best was a moral change reformation, which she instantly imposed upon herself. Henceforth it was her intention that in the chair of St. Peter should never again be seen atheists, poisoners, thieves, murderers, blasphemers, adulterers, but men, who, if they were sometimes found, as must be the case, considering the infirmities of humanity, incompetent to deal with the great trials which often befell them, were yet of such personal purity, holiness of life, and uprightness of intention as to command profound respect. Those scandals that hitherto had everywhere disgraced her began to disappear, a true reformation, but not a schism, occurring through all ecclesiastical grades. Had Protestantism produced no other result than this, it would hae been an unspeakable...
