Harrington, Jr. Of Wilmington, Delaware, and Colonel S. M. Bowmen, U. S. A: In Defense of Edwin Wilmer, Provost Marshal of Delaware, Before a Court Martial in Washington City, D. C., June 2d, 1865 I should feel that I had not performed my duty, if I failed to make my profound acknowledgments for the courtesy, indulgence, and patience of the Court, and for the frankness, fairness, and kindness of the Judge Advocate to both the accused and his counsel. Since the commencement of the late rebellion, now happily ended by the military power of the Government upon the basis of Freedom and Union, there is no State where opinion was so evenly divided and so warm and antagonistic without breaking into open war, as the State of Delaware. Nowhere was the line between the supporters and the opponents of the administration and the war to suppress rebellion, more clearly and distinctly drawn. A public officer was sure to meet the condemnation of one side, while he was also likely to offend...
