In response to a congressional request, GAO provided information on the assignment experience of 18 prominent generals and admirals of the World War II era. GAO found that: (1) the field-grade time for 11 of the officers ranged from 18. 1 to 23. 3 years, while the field-grade time for the other 7 ranged from 1. 8 to 17. 6 years; (2) all of the Navy and Marine Corps officers and several of the Army officers spent 18 years or more as field-grade officers; (3) on the average, the Navy officers spent the highest proportion of their field grade years in war-fighting assignments; (4) two Air Force generals and two Army generals never had assignments in key war-fighting positions; (5) the Navy officers had a median of 3 years for non-war-fighting assignments, Army officers had a median of 6. 9 years, and the overall median was 4. 4 years; (6) nearly all of the 18 officers served more than 3 years in service headquarters; and (7) the Department of Defense urged that, since these officers careers spanned World Wars I and...
